THE ZEALANDERS

AMAZING EXPERIENCE AND BOTH DENMARK AND ZEALAND HAS MUCH TO OFFER

... among the happiest people in the world!

This is probably due to the high standard of living, economic development, safe and friendly atmosphere.

DO YOU KNOW DENMARK?

- Perhaps the pictures give you an idea?
- The Danish concept of "Hygge" - but what is it?

hygge

[hue-gue] noun

- [1] A danish word for a calm and comfortable time with people you love.
[2] Candy, chocolate and drinks is a must!
[4] Home is where wi-fi and hygge is. [3]
One does not simply say no to hygge.
[5] Don't worry - just hygge!

A laid-back lifestyle

The Danish way of living is usually perceived as one the more laid-back lifestyles.

When you arrive in Denmark you might notice the relaxed atmosphere, an endless number of people on bikes and that things generally run smoothly.

Bikes, bikes, bikes...

4 mil. people - but 20 mil. bikes in Denmark

Bikes can be quite cheap, often the fastest solution (no waiting for the bus), and most Danes will bike regardless of rain or snow.

Busses, metros, and local trains are all good reliable options for transportation. Across Denmark, there are trains ferries, and coach services that you can take.

Train lines run between the different regions.

You must have a valid ticket or commuter card when using public transportation, as the fines for riding without one are high in all cities.

”TAKE RESPONSIBILITY FOR YOUR OWN EDUCATION”

- Philosophy of Danish education - it means that you are rarely tested on the reading or having your attendance checked.
- Do not take this as a reason to skip class or not do the reading. (exams and assignments you need to pass and many subjects might include group work with other students, who are depending on you to show up prepared).
- Being able to solve the problems on your own is a large component of the Danish exams, and imaginative and individual inputs are often rewarded, as long as they are academically sound and validly argued.
- The educational system is designed to promote creativity, innovation, analytical and critical thinking. Most of this is encountered by Danish pupils already in primary school.

WHAT TO EXPECT - FAQ

VIBRANT STUDY ENVIRONMENT

- Dedicated teachers, who are passionate about their subjects and are looking forward to transferring their knowledge to you.
- Full time study = approx. 37 hours a week (classroom lessons + project work with other students + preparation at home, individually and in study groups).
- Typical week for student: 10-14 lectures or seminars and 20-27 hours of self-studying and group work.
- Autumn semester usually starts in late AUGUST and ends at the end of JANUARY. Classes usually ends in December with examinations in January.
- Spring semester usually starts in early FEBRUARY and ends at the end of JUNE. Classes usually ends in Maj with examinations in June.
- In Denmark it is not considered as a bad manners to interrupt or to ask a professor a questions during lectures.
- As a student in Denmark, you can expect high quality education, where you will also learn from industry experts, and do internships in big companies/organizations.

You will also be studying in a safe and innovation-driven environment.

Zealand

My exchange semester is definitely a great and precious time. I found in Zealand a great learning experience in a truly international study environment with classmates from all over.

Being abroad is always an adventure and I have been having a once in lifetime experience in Denmark. From beginning I have found a friendly and supportive local program staff who helped me making feel welcome and comfortable from day one. I would also like to highlight the excellent and practical approach to learning which I found at Zealand. During my semester with ZIBAT I have met with so many great people from across the world and I have made lifelong friendships.
